Fort Kochi Beach

One stretch belongs to the Navy and stays closed to walkers.

ADDRESS

ABOUT

Fort Kochi Beach is the Arabian Sea shore on the Fort Kochi peninsula, where the Chinese fishing nets stand out over the water. Each net is a shore-operated lift net about 10 metres tall, and a team of up to six fishermen works each one. Stand on the seafront path and watch them lower and raise the nets. Then eat at one of the stalls along the walkway, which cook freshly caught fish. Colonial-style bungalows stand along the shoreline, and Vasco da Gama Square sits close by.
