

MUSEUM

Archaeological Site Museum, Mattancherry Palace

Actually built by the Portuguese around 1550, later renovated by the Dutch.

ADDRESS

ABOUT

Mattancherry Palace, called the Dutch Palace, is a museum on Palace Road in Mattancherry. Its courtyard temple has only one wall between it and the Paradesi Synagogue, so the two sit almost side by side. It opens 10am to 5pm every day except Friday, when it is shut. A stairlift and braille signs help at the entrance. The murals are the reason to come. They show scenes from the Ramayana and the Mahabharata, along with other Puranic legends. In the royal bedchamber, Hanuman is rescuing Sita from Lanka.

THE FULL PAGE

catsofkochi.com/places/mattancherry-palace

Opening hours, phone, a map and 2 photographs.

Reading this on paper? Go to catsofkochi.com and search for Archaeological Site Museum.

Join our WhatsApp Channel

Mark Hills, 27 June 2006, via Wikimedia Commons/Flickr, CC BY 2.0. Map data © OpenStreetMap contributors.