

TOURIST ATTRACTION

Kumbalangi

India's first eco-tourism village, where the water can glow blue at night.

ADDRESS Kumbalangi

ABOUT

Kumbalangi is an island village on the backwaters about 12 km from Kochi's city centre, and India's first eco-tourism village. The village is in Ernakulam district and is well connected by road to the mainland. Kumbalam lies to its north. Its name records how the land formed. It was once called Kumbalam Vilangi, for an island that formed between Kumbalam and the sea. The name later shortened to Kumbalangi. Expect nets, boats and village life rather than a set attraction.
